 Koala Clancy

 @KoalaClancy

We look forward to hearing from you!

WHAT WE DO

Koala Clancy Foundation plants trees for koalas, creates new habitat, educates the community, supports scientific research, and advocates for the protection of wild koalas & their forest habitats.

We work in the catchments of the Little, Moorabool & Barwon Rivers, west of Melbourne, Victoria.

Membership

Join us for regular events, contribute to important decisions, and gain access to exclusive opportunities. Sign up today.

Volunteering

We host events year-round: planting trees, sowing seeds, removing weeds.

Donations

Are you hopeful that koalas will survive climate change? We are too. A donation to Koala Clancy Foundation goes to the most practical and impactful solutions that have been proven to increase koala numbers.

TARGET: 300,000 koala trees by 2030

Our research indicates that koalas are declining at 46% every 10 years in the You Yangs, Victoria.

The koalas that have survived desperately need more trees in wet, fertile habitat. To save them, Koala Clancy Foundation will plant 300,000 koala trees along rivers and waterways by 2030.
